

WE NOMINATE

Jean Labatut, one of the leading architects and architectural teachers of the mid-20th century, who has dedicated his career to teaching and proving by his own works that "it is false to say that our machine age has diminished or suppressed elements essential to beauty." Indicative of Labatut's capacity for creating excitement in architectural circles has been the exhibition (closing this week) in McCormick Hall of a Church Prototype, "The Church of the Four Evangelists," by Labatut and a former Princetonian, painter Andre Girard.

The Labatut-Girard scale model of a pentagonal church, with an interior parabolic wall and with walls of painted glass from floor to a 26-foot high ceiling, is described by philosopher Jacques Maritain as a "great architectural and decorative conception" and is linked with Labatut's researches in architectural composition and details, landscape architecture and community planning. Adaptable to a community of any size, the prototype was previously exhibited in New York and Chicago and won the highest of praise for effectively blending the modern and the traditional in sacred art.

A 53-year old native of France and a Princetonian since 1928, when he was called here to supervise advanced studies in the University's School of Architecture, Labatut has literally earned enough awards to fill nearly a half-column in WHO'S WHO. Labatut, a former director of the American School of Fine Arts, Fontainebleau, France, and one of the creators of two of Princeton's distinctive research agencies, the Bureau of Urban Research and the Architectural Laboratory, early this past winter was honored as a Knight of the French Legion of Honor, shortly before it became known that next spring—on leave from the University—he would serve as Architect in Residence at the American Academy in Rome.

During World War II Labatut, a member of the French Army's Engineering Corps in 1918-19 and a naturalized American for the past 13 years, even found ways of using Palmer Stadium for war purposes. Engaged in camouflage research, he found that by gazing down from the concrete horseshoe's top parapet camouflage technicians could see scale models of airfields and factories in the same way aerial photographers and bombardiers would view the "real thing" from thousands of feet "up." Labatut's post-war activities have included the chairmanship of the Township Planning Board, a post he has held since the Board was founded in 1948.

For blazing new trails in the field of architecture; for emphasizing that the atomic present demands of the architect a greater development of his creative power, and a greater sensibility; for constantly seeking to delve ever deeper into the problems of architectural composition; he is our nominee for

Vital Protection. While the international situation was no worse, the fact remained that it has for the past few years been "exceedingly serious." It was also a fact that Russia has the atomic bomb.
Added to this is the known inability of radar to detect enemy planes approaching the U. S. at low-flying levels.

All things considered—and the matter had received serious attention since before the outbreak of war in Korea—the Air Defense Command had set this Saturday as the first day for operation of the Ground Observer Corps on a 24-hour basis. Preliminary steps toward this objective (the training of key personnel and the organization of filter centers) have been accomplished. Now, those charged with defense of the nation felt, activation of the Ground Observer Corps was the next vital step in preparedness.

In New Jersey and 26 other states which form a carefully-planned defense pattern, volunteers were being called. Men and women from 16 to 60 were needed to fit into two-hour shifts, to spot all aircraft and telephone identifying characteristics from the "field office" at the edge of the Springdale Golf Course.

Like many another community,
Princeton was encountering extreme difficulty in organizing its quota of volunteers. At mid-week, less than a third of the 200 regulars and alternates needed to man
the post in pairs had registered, with weekend and night shifts particularly unpopular.

On paper, the blank hours were filled in with the names of a few Princetonians who had promised to direct the project, and who promised themselves that as of Saturday, no shift would go unfilled.
But without additional help, the task seemed hopeless—one man was scheduled for 22 consecutive hours to bridge the biggest gap!

A decade ago, the U. S. absorbed a lesson in unpreparedness that cost it hundreds of thousands of lives and was not immeasurably distant from choking off its own existence. If it persisted in going unprepared again—and the only guarantee that it would not was the people themselves—its own life might well be the forfeit.

Those who wish to help may do so by telephoning Hayward Greenland (871-W) or writing him through P. O. Box 16.

Dedication Plans, Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett will be the principal speaker Saturday when Princeton University's For-restal Research Center is dedicated.

and will be open to the public, with the center open for inspection before and after the ceremonies.
Governor Driscoll and President Dodds will be others participating in the occasion, which will attract leading figures in business, industry, government, education and science from all parts of the nation. The program has been arranged just a year after work began in the 17 major buildings that are being developed as modern research laboratories.

Tour of Homes. The busy weekend (for details of the athletic program starting at 8:45 a.m. and running to 4:40 p.m., see the sports section, pages 6 and 7) will also be marked by an "Open House" tour of ten attractive and unusual Princeton homes. Proceeds will benefit the scholarship funds of Mt. Holyoke and Radcliffe Colleges; tickets at $2 are on sale at Hinkson's and the University Store.

Examples of architecture and design from colonial to the ultra-modern will be reflected by the houses, while antiques, paintings and gardens will also be on display. Those whose homes will be open are former Governor and Mrs. Walter Edge, Morven, Stockton Street; Dean and Mrs. J. Douglas Brown, The Dean's House; William H. Jackson, Elmwood, Princeton-Trenton Pike; Dean and Mrs. Luther P. Eisenhart, Alexander Street; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Cook, Heathcote Farm, Kingston.

Also, Professor and Mrs. Sherley Morgan, Hodge Road; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sorg, Springdale Road; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lauck, Jr., Princeton-Lawrenceville Road; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Haines, Elm Road; Professor and Mrs. Harold Cherniss, Battle Road.

Circus Coming. Sponsored by the Lions Club, Hunt's Circus will give two performances Wednesday, staging a matinee at 3:30 and an evening show at 8 on the Witherspoon Street grounds opposite the Valley Road School.

A variety of animal acts will include a number of trained elephants, among them "Rahne," billed as the world's smallest and presented by "Marsh Hunt," the world's youngest elephant trainer. The eight-year old girl has appeared in motion pictures and on several coast-to-coast television programs.

Sidewalk Displays Limited. The Borough Council made this news at its May meeting Tuesday:

Passed a resolution prohibiting the display of merchandise on the sidewalk in the business district if it is more than three feet from the store front. Whatever is placed outside must leave 11 feet of sidewalk for pedestrian use on Nassau Street and eight feet on Witherspoon.

Passed an ordinance to install 68 meters in the Spring Street parking lot.

Passed an ordinance to improve Harold Avenue at a cost of $21,000, of which the property owners affected will pay 40 per cent through increased assessments.

Introduced a measure to call the street running from Moore to Snowden Lane "Hamilton Avenue" for the entire distance, thus eliminating Hamilton Avenue Extension and Harold Avenue. That gets a public hearing on June 10.

It's New to Us

It Could Be You. If you're one of the first 500 women to enter McCarter Theatre next Thursday or Friday, May 22 and 23, you'll receive a pleasant surprise. Those are the dates of the Junior Community Players' performances of "The Sleeping Beauty," you know. The surprise is a joint gift from Thorne's Drug Store and Helena Rubinstein: a set of two new lipsticks in a gift package to the first 500 "Sleeping Beauties."

The lipsticks are summer shades—"Pink and Fair" and "Sunny Coral"—light and right for your coolest and sheerest. Nail polish to match will be on sale at Thorne's, but it's the lipstick you'll take home if you're one of those early 500.

Royal Crystal for Your Table. When Queen Juliana paid her recent visit to the United States, she used Royal Netherlands crystal for all her state dinners. This same crystal is now available for the first time in Princeton, at the Cummins Shop, 96 Nassau.

We've never seen crystal like this before, never heard such a clear ring to the glass—it sounds almost like a gong. You lift a goblet in your hand and you feel as though you were taking up a chalice. The crystal is weighty and magnificent.

Royal Netherlands is lead crystal. We never knew exactly what this term meant, but we do now: it refers to a blend of finest white silver sand and pure lead oxide. Without these ingredients you wouldn't hear that vibrant ring when you snap the crystal with your finger. (By the way, lead crystal as fine as this doesn't break easily.)

Craftsmen who make the crystal in Maastricht, The Netherlands, learned their art from their fathers and will pass it on to their sons. All cutting is done by hand, and you have to look at individual pieces before you can appreciate the craftsmanship in each design.

You may choose from ten patterns, all Waterford-type. Four of the patterns are on display at Cummins, and the other six can be ordered from New York with delivery in 48 hours. Included in the stock are goblets, champagnes, clarets, wines, cocktails, cordials, footed teacups, finger bowls and salad plates.

R. Stroup. Others on the slate prepared by Thomas M. Rowland are Mrs. Moore Gates, secretary; Harold Kines, treasurer, and Miss Ann Lyons, assistant treasurer. Chosen for three-year terms on the board of directors are Dr. Clemen, George Conover, Bryan Moore and Carl von Nordheim.

Trophies Awarded. Fourteen traditional trophies awarded by Company L of the New Jersey National Guard's 114th Infantry Regiment were given to members at ceremonies held Monday in the River Road armory. Presentation for outstanding achievement during the past year was made by Lieutenant Stanley L. Donald, company commander.

The Benham Trophy, for "highest degree of general excellence, efficiency and bearing in performance of duty," went to William Morris. Runners up were Anthony Carnevale and Horace Scott. John Clausen, Michael Carnevale and Rudolph Schuler were honored as outstanding new members of Company L.

Trophies for superior ability in rifle marksmanship went to Sergeant Michael Lisi, Nicholas Bartolino, Salvatore Didonato, James Wheeler, Anthony Krystaponis, Robert Moore and Robert Bell. These men were largely responsible for the company's winning the regimental trophy as top outfit in rifle marksmanship in the entire 114th Regiment. Presentation of the awards, an unusual procedure among military units, was conceived and carried out by Lieutenant Donald in recognition of the service members of the company give to their community and state.

Korean Casualty. Pfc. Stephen G. Swingle, son of Professor and Mrs. Wilbur Swingle of 200 Jefferson Road, was wounded in action in Korea in late April. Professor Swingle, a member of the Department of Biology at Princeton University, said the information received did not indicate how serious his condition is.

Private Swingle enlisted in the Marines in February, 1951, and sailed for Korea last August. Born in Princeton, he had attended Valley Forge Military Academy and the University of Florida before entering service.

Bonus Paid. Gallup & Robinson, advertising research firm with offices at 53 Bank Street, has distributed a profit-sharing bonus among its employees. In all, 53 persons, including 14 no longer with the organization, participated in the fund, with more than a month's salary going to those employed for over a year.

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

Oay-Long Action. Princetonians who enjoy spending a full day watching a variety of athletic events will have their best chance of the spring season this Saturday. Trial heats in the Eastern Rowing Championships will get under way on Lake Carnegie at 8:45, to be followed at 1 by a Colgate-Princeton baseball game and Army-Princeton lacrosse contest on University Field. Three 150-lb. races between Penn and Princeton will precede the finals for the heavyweight crews on the lake. All starting times are in the Calendar of the Week.

Navy and Harvard are co-favorites to win the Rowe Cup, emblematic of Eastern supremacy on the water, with the midshipmen likely to take the trophy that the Crimson has held for the past two years. The Harvard freshmen have been seeded first, with Navy second; Navy is first in both the junior varsity and varsity seedings, with Harvard second in the jayvees and third in the varsity, behind Penn.

Princeton's freshman crew, seeded fourth, will race against Syracuse and Penn, and should make the finals. The Tiger jayvees row against Yale and Boston University, and are also likely to win their heat; however, the varsity was rated even in the seedings with Wisconsin, last year's winner at Marlatta, and will do extremely well to top this mid-western entry.

Still, the Tigers are coming, as shown by their driving triumph in the Carnegie Cup race last week. They led for all but a few brief seconds at the outset, stood off Yale's challenge in the final 200 yards and won by better than half a length, with Cornell third.

The jayvees also triumphed, overtaking Cornell in the final 150 yards for a well-earned victory. Cornell won the freshman race, with all three decided by less than a length in an unusually interesting afternoon of rowing.

Princeton's lightweight freshman crew added considerably to its reputation by winning the Eastern sprint championships over seven other competitors. The 150-lb. Tiger cubs, only one of whom ever rowed before coming to Princeton, are coached by Art Suelzle, former University of California oarsman, who is now in his second year at Princeton Theological Seminary.

The jayvees were shut out in their heat, while the varsity won fourth in its final, which went to moved up from a 66-50 deficit to 66-64 by sweeping the javelin and winning the mile relay, that point loomed large. But Cornell finished one-two in the discus, making it a 74-65 final for Princeton's first defeat after five straight. Four meet records were set, two going to Dick Yaffa with a 1:55 half-mile and Buzz Taylor with a 24' 5" broad jump. Cornell broke the others in the hammer and shotput.

Saturday will see Matty Geis lead his operatives in search of the Hegtagonal title at West Point. Army, Cornell and Harvard are the teams to beat.

Short Notes. When John Conroy's tennis team planked previously unbeaten Harvard Saturday without the loss of a set, Jack Barnaby, Harvard coach, called the Tigers "the best college team I've seen in 20 years." Last week, in addition to a 9-0 triumph over Harvard, Princeton topped Yale, 8-1, and Davidson, 7-2, the latter one of the best outfits in the south. The streak is now 31 in a row and with the material at hand, may go on for at least another two or three years.

Another streak was almost snappedw Saturday when Yale led the lacrosse team, 7-5, in the final quarter on University Field. But Ferris Thomsen's rugged outfit rallied for five goals and a 10-7 victory to preserve the string of victories scored over the Elis in this sport since 1932.

Bill Ragland, captain of the Nassau golf team, repeated his 1951 feat of winning medalist honors in the Eastern Intercollegiates at Annapolis last weekend, shooting a 36-hole total of 149. He paced the Tigers Tripped. Princeton's baseball team which faces Manhattan College next day is out of competition for the Eastern League title for the first time in four years.

 Loss of a doubleheader at Ithaca did scores of fans and coaches over, the Tigers were guilty of a bit of almost everything that can go wrong in college baseball.

Errors in the opening inning paired off the first baseman Dave Sis-ler; although they made only three hits, the Princetonians could have had a 2-0 shutout going into the third round. As it was, with a 2-1 win, the Princetonians was lifted for a pinch-runner, Harry Brightman came on to give up the tally that spelled defeat.

Brightman then threw nine good innings of ball in the nightcap while the team pounded out 11 hits for 14 bases but could score only twice. When he was removed for a pinch runner, Brightman was clipped for a home run with one aboard in the tenth. In the bottom of that frame, the Tigers snuffed out whatever chance they had of coming back. Brightman, who having runners picked off second and third on the same play.

Chicago's 6-4 win over Temple (despite seven Princeton errors)
 did not mean much to the Tigers 5-7, but the twin losses to Cornell gave the team a rugged assignment in seeking to top the break-even can look like next year's, but you can protect the chrome on your antique by using Chrome-Glo, a clear plastic coating that will give all-weather protection to chrome on your car. You can buy it at Turney's, 255 Nassau.

We've seen chrome-protector plastics to keep brand new chrome from getting smallpox, but this is the first we've seen that will help the old chrome, too. You buy a half-pint can for $1.25, apply it with a cloth. All tackiness will go in 15 minutes. If you're in a hurry and drip some on the paint, don't worry. You can wipe it off and it won't leave a trace.

"Old Chairs to Mend!" In this case, we might enlarge upon Mother Goose and talk about old cane and rush chair seats to reweave and recane.

Having a chair recaned is not a simple matter of calling up somebody who'll come around the corner and do it for you. In fact, if you've had repair work like this to be done, you've probably wasted a lot of time running around the countryside finding someone to do it.

You can get it done now at Schuessler's, the du Pont paint dealer out on Route 31. In fact, you can take any kind of furniture repair or refinishing job to this little shop. They were brushing the last mote from a cherry-drop-leaf when we were there, and that table was a masterpiece.

If your furniture is like ours, it's not old enough to be antique and not new enough to do anybody any good. Schuessler will spray-paint furniture in this category—say, a whole bedroom suite or kitchen table and chairs.

The Schuessler shop is at the corner of Cherry Valley Road and Route 31 on the left as you drive toward Somerville. No meters here. You can confer on that recaning job as long as you like. Prices, incidentally, depend on how many tears in the seat.

Short But Not Too Sweet. Any woman who is five feet five and under (hey, that's us!) has the problem of finding a dress that fits and flatters. You buy a junior size. Continued on Page 10

Tigers to second place in the tourney behind Virginia in a field of 14. In match play, however, Ragland bowed out in the semi-finals.

Princeton High School's track team again completely dominated the Mercer County championships in Trenton Tuesday, winning the title for the fifth year in a row. Coach Irwin Weiss' Little Tigers romped off with a dozen first places and assorted runner-up positions for a total of 95 points. Trenton High was far behind with 26, while Trenton Catholic, Hamilton and Hightstown trailed.

Tom Perks, voted the outstanding athlete of the occasion, broke three meet records in winning the shot, javelin and discus. Buster Thomas took the broad jump and 220-yard dash, while Jim Varner also racked up a double when he won both hurdles. Last weekend, the Blue and White took more honors in the Long Branch Relays as its all-conquering march continues.

Meredith Colket of Washington will speak Monday night at 8:15 at the meeting of the Princeton Historical Society in Miss Fine's School. His subject will be "Materials in the National Archives Pertaining to New Jersey and Princeton History."

Displays of flags and exhibitions in store windows of military equipment will mark Armed Forces Day here Saturday. Cooperating stores are Clayton's, the Princeton Decorating Shop, the Wright Store and the Better Mousetrap. C. Kenneth Wallace heads the committee on arrangements; other members are the Rev. Dr. John V. Butler, James M. Keels, Miss Kay Owles, Mrs. Geoffrey Sage and Dan D. Coyle.

Paintings by Dudley Morris, art instructor at the Lawrenceville School, will be on display at Group Arts, 14 Spring Street, through May 30. His work has been exhibited in museums in many principal cities, and may be seen here from 10-5 five days a week; until 2 on Saturday and weekends by appointment.

Students from the Kelsall Vocal Studio, assisted by the Blair Academy Male Chorus and Elva Kelsall, will give a recital Sunday evening at 8:30 at the Penns Neck Community Club. Among those to be heard will be Jean Viglione, who will appear in a Town Hall recital in New York next month, and Robert Dixon, tenor who sang in the Y.W.C.A. festival. There is no admission charge.

It was announced at Township Hall Monday that Theodore Potts has failed to appeal the Superior Court ruling that the ordinance prohibiting two-family homes near the Clearview section is legal. The measure was challenged by Mr. Potts, but Judge Smalley upheld it and the deadline for a second appeal has now passed.

Nassau Lodge No. 106, I.O.O.F., will meet Monday to watch a demonstration of plastics by Henry Ayars, a lodge member, and Mrs. Ayars. Wives of members are invited to attend.

Mrs. John C. Dielhenn has been named a trustee of the Public Library to succeed Mrs. Gilbert Lea. Mrs. Lea's resignation was necessitated because she will shortly become a resident of Lawrence Township, where she and Mr. Lea have purchased a farm on the Princeton Pike.

Following the regular story hour at 10 Saturday at the Public Library for younger children, a special program for older boys and girls will be held at 11. Robert Robertson, fourth grade pupil, will present a program of ballads.

and it has just the sweetest little Peter Pan collar and you may feel like 16 in it, but you aren't kidding anybody. Or you buy women's half-sizes and find yourself looking like granny, dressed up for a sewing circle.

Now, at Mary Gill's, 230 Nassau, you can buy Leslie Fay dresses for your five-foot frame. It's high time, too, because this size (they say) is the height of the average American woman (whoever she may be).

These dresses fit us exactly, even to length, which is an event in our shopping experience. They are also proportioned for shoulders, waistline and hips.

We saw a rack-full of Leslie Fay dress-ups, made in silk, surah and shantung. There are prints, small so they don't blow over the pint-size figure, but not so small they melt into the landscape. We liked especially a navy blue silk suit perfect for a small, trim five-footer.

Prices on these range upward from $19.95. There will be cottons in the same line from $12.95, although these hadn't come in yet when we were browsing.

The trickiest strapless-stole combination is in Mary Gill's collection (you can be any size to wear this one.) It's washable everglaze in chartreuse with lemony leaves printed on it. The tricky part comes with the stole. It's attached to the bones of the strapless bodice, and what you think is the other end of the stole is actually a panel hanging over the left hip. Are you still

IN CONCERT SATURDAY

Patricia Travers, violinist, will play in McGarter Saturday night.

News of the Theatres

UNIVERSITY CONCERTS

Patricia Travers, still in her early 20's but now on her 15th nationwide tour as a concert violinist, will be heard in the McGarter Saturday night at 8:30. With Claude Chiasson as her accompanist, she will play the famous "Devil's Trill" Sonata by Tartini; Brahms' Sonata in D minor; Roger Sessions Duo for Violin and Piano and Charles Ives' Sonata No. 2.

Miss Travers, who has already won wide acclaim here and abroad, traces her interest in music to the first toy violin she had as a baby. She began taking lessons before she was four, made her debut at the age of 6 and her first professional appearance at 9, as soloist with the Detroit Symphony on a national radio network.

Her concert, last in University Series I this season, is an event not to be overlooked. Tickets at the University Store and Saturday, at the theatre.

Full details and information on ticket subscriptions for Series I and II next season were released this week by Mrs. MacKenty Bryan for the University Concerts Committee. See page 16 for full details.

MURRAY THEATRE

The Searching Sun. John O'Hara's new play which has been receiving a trial run here prior to heading for Broadway, will conclude its stand in Murray Theatre with performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30. While considerable disagreement exists over its merits, the production provides an interesting evening and is currently serving as an excellent conversation piece. The play is worth seeing, regardless of its final appeal.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Marrying Kind (Thurs.-Sat.) details the ups and downs of seven years of wedlock for Judy Holiday and newcomer Aldo Ray. Much of it resorts to flashback to show why they're on the verge of divorce, blending comedy and drama but rarely rising above the run of ordinary entertainment.

The Wild North (Sun.-Tues.) pits Wendell Corey as a member of the Canadian Mounted Police against Stewart Granger, who is involved in the death of a fellow trapper. Action is frequently slow, although climaxed by an attack on the two men by timber wolves and by a perilous journey over dangerous rapids. Good Technicolor scenery of the Canadian Rockies is a distinct asset.

My Son, John (Wed.-Sat.) records the dangers—and attractions—of Communism, portraying the fate of a government employee who becomes involved in the web of subversive activities. Despite the presence of Helen Hayes (in her first picture in 17 years), and a capable cast that includes Van Heflin, Dean

In Newark, Mrs. Evelyn Damiano returned home to find an intruder had broken into her house, but judged from the only evidence she found (a slept-in bed and use of her husband's pajamas) that all he had taken was a nap.

In Asbury Park, city officials compared the number of entrants in men's and women's fashion shows, concluded that members of the male sex enjoy dressing up even more than their wives.

In Parsippany, Police Sergeant Albert Towney got a full day's exercise when he chased three pigs for two miles before he finally lassoed one of them, causing all three to give up. But in New Brunswick, a geased pig assigned to be "it" in a chase by a dozen pretty N.J.C. girls wouldn't budge, resulting in cancellation of this event on the May Day program.

In Newark, police solved a string of 50 burglaries when they caught the 14-year-old boy who had staged them. He was found asleep in the last place he had broken into, a school for juvenile delinquents.

In Atlantic City, the American Cemetery Association concluded at its annual meeting that there is enough cemetery space in the nation to last another 200 years.

In Carteret, three boys who buried "treasure" they had found were alive to tell the tale only because they had done so. Finding what they thought were lead pellets that would make good fishing sinkers, they hid them under a broken sidewalk until school was out, learned as the result of a city-wide hunt that the pellets (worth $200,000) were highly radioactive.

In Hoboken, 11-year old Joseph Lawless diagnosed his own case for the doctor in the hospital clinic. Hit in the leg by a stray bullet, he reported: "I already dug it out with a penknife—just put some penicillin in it."

In Jersey City, restaurant owner Nicholas Dominos noticed his chef limping as he walked out after the 2 a.m. closing hour. Catching up with him, Dominos found the limp was caused by two pork chops and a steak tied to the man's leg.

In Newark, Mrs. Anna Margolin was sufficiently upset when a thief demanded the money in her cash register that she handed over $42 even though he was only pointing a finger at her.

In Camden, an ambulance raced to the scene of a traffic accident, found the victims unhurt, raced back to the hospital with three women who had fainted at the scene.

The New Jersey Poll

ALEXANDER TRAILS SMITH IN FIRST VOTER SURVEY. NEW JERSEY POLL SHOWS

The relative strength of the two senatorial candidates, Alexander Smith and Archibald Alexander is revealed in the first "trial heat" just completed by the New Jersey Poll among the state's voters.

Results show Republican Smith running ahead of Democrat Alexander by a margin of 11%, with neither man getting a majority vote.

When a representative sample of the New Jersey voting public was asked:

"This year, New Jersey voters will elect a United States Senator. If the election were held today, how would you probably vote—for the Republican candidate Alexander Smith or the Democratic candidate Archibald Alexander?"

The vote:

Smith	48%
Alexander	37
Undecided	16

The split in sentiment among the various population groups in the state offers some interesting and significant findings. For instance, among voters under 45 years of age, sentiment for Smith and Alexander is exactly the same; whereas among those 45 years of age or older, majority sentiment favors Smith.

Here's how those under 45 years of age voted:

Smith	42%
Alexander	42
Undecided	16

And here's how those 45 years and over voted:

Smith	56%
Alexander	31
Undecided	13

An examination of the vote by occupation groups shows a majority of the white-collar workers throughout the state favoring Smith; whereas the weight of sentiment among manual workers prefers Alexander.

The vote by occupational groups:

	White-Collar Workers	Manual Workers
Alexander	28%	44%
Smith	57%	46%
Undecided	15%	10%

Noteworthy, too, is that the larger the town, the greater the sentiment for Alexander. Weight of opinion in rural communities over 25,000 favors Alexander; whereas majority sentiment among rural and small town dwellers favors Smith.

Rural	2,500-25,000	100,000
Alexander	58%	35%
Smith	35%	42%
Undecided	10	13

Perhaps the most significant vote in the present survey is the division of sentiment among Independents.

JERSEY POLL
 ent voters — those who classify themselves as neither Republicans nor Democrats. This group, constituting about three out of every ten voters in the state today, decides the winner in practically all New Jersey statewide elections.

In today's survey, neither man received a majority vote among the Independent voters. The weight of sentiment among rank and file In-dependent's does, however, favor Smith over Alexander by a ten percent margin.

One out of every four Independents, however, is still on the fence.
 The following table shows how persons who classify themselves as Republicans, Democrats, or Independents voted in the Smith-Alexander
 "trial heat":

	Ind.	Rep.	Dem.
Smith	42	86	15
Alexander	33	7	70
Undecided	24	7	13

It must be emphasized that today's figures are a reflection of sentiment nearly six months in advance of elections and cannot in any sense be construed as a forecast of what will happen next November. As the campaigning swings into high gear, voters will have a better opportunity to learn more about the candidates, their records and their platforms.

G.O.P. Holds Margin. Results of a survey of political sentiment in the state just completed by New Jersey Poll staff reporters show that Republican strength is just about what it was on Election Day, November 2, 1950.

At that time, the G.O.P. captured nine Congressional seats, the same number that it took in 1948. In both 1948 and 1950, the Democrats won five seats.

In making the survey, New Jersey Poll staff reporters personally asked an accurate cross-section of the state's voters this question: "If the elections for Congress were being held today, which party would you like to see win in this state—
 the Republican Party or the Democratic Party?"

The following tables give the statewide vote. The first table shows the vote including those who express themselves as "undecided" at this time; the second gives the vote of only those with opinions.

(Including Undecided)
Republicans	50%
Democrats	43
Undecided	7
(Excluding Undecided)
Republicans	54%

Jagger and the late Robert Walker, the film falls short of the mark. Instead of ranking as a powerful drama, it is presented as pure melodrama that tends to become maudlin in depicting a family tragedy.

ALEXANDER HALL
The Princeton University Orchestra will give a concert this Sunday evening at 8:30 in Alexander Hall, with Russell Ames Cook directing and Robert Miller '52 the soloist. Admission is free and no tickets are required.

The program will include Mozart's Overture Die Entführung aus dem Serail, K. 384; Beethoven's Concerto No. 2 in B flat major, Op. 19; the Brandenburg Concerto No. 3, in G major by Bach; Quiet City by Copland; and Beethoven's Overture—Prometheus, Op. 43.

CLIO HALL
George C. Newlin, '52, baritone soloist with the Princeton Glee Club for four years, will give a recital this Friday night at 8:30 in Clio Hall auditorium. He will be accompanied by Miss Dolores Mittler, a pupil of Madame Gaby Casadesus.

The program, in four languages, will include arias from Handel's Messiah and his opera Amadigi, as well as from works by Gluck, Lully, Mendelssohn and Gilbert and Sullivan. A group of five arias from Mozart's operas, Le Nozze de Figaro and Don Giovanni, and songs by Faure, Wolf and Schubert will also be sung by Mr. Newlin. There is no admission charge.

MCCARTER THEATRE
The Sleeping Beauty will be given as a matinee next Thursday, May 22, at 3:30 and again Friday, May 23, at 8 o'clock. More than 160 Princetonians, young and old, will be seen as members of the Junior Community Players or Andree Estey's ballet groups.

Mrs. Joseph Haight is directing the large cast in her original dramatization of the story. Principal roles are being taken by Herbert McAneny, Robert McCullough, Anne Miller, Georgine Hall, Emily Stuart, Henry Seigle, John Beebe, Grace Morton, Stephen Young, Melissa Kay, Lynn McManus, Hester Delafield, Louise Rosendorf, Barbara Berry and Molly Wade.

The play is the final event in the Children's Entertainment Series sponsored by the borough elementary schools PTA. Tickets at the University Store and, next Thursday and Friday, at the box office.

THE GARDEN
The Battle at Apache Pass (Fri-Sat.), set in the post-Civil War era in the southwestern territories, pitches settlers and a small army post against the Indians. Against a Technicolor background, the film follows a good pace to become a typical slam-bang western. With John Lund, Jeff Chandler, Beverly Tyler.

ENCORE (Mon.-Thurs.) is the third of a package deal involving Somerset Maugham stories, each of which the skilled British writer introduces himself. Like "Trio" and "Quartet," this one has variety, interest and topflight acting. "The Ant and the Grasshopper" is an ironic piece about a shiftless playboy who evens the score with his hardworking brother; "Winter Cruise" has a surprise twist in the love affair between a young French steward and a talkative middle-aged spinster; "Gigolo and Gigolette" records the ups and downs of the romance of two carnival performers. Well worth seeing.

FILM REVIVAL
A Star Is Born, featuring Janet Gaynor and Frederic March and first released in 1937, will be shown Tuesday night at 8 in the Nassau Street School auditorium. An Academy Award winner for the effectiveness of its color photography, the film spins a story of life in Hollywood motion picture studios and the problems that bar the path to stardom. Proceeds will benefit the Princeton Chapter of United World Federalists; tickets at the door.
